Media School degrees starting fall 2015

This is information for all students pursuing the new Media School degrees in effect starting Fall 2015. All freshmen and Fall 2015/Spring 2016 transfers are completing this degree. IUB students who started at IU Bloomington before this fall may have chosen to switch to the brand-new 2015 requirements in consultation with an adviser. If you are looking for information on previous versions of the degree, please see the legacy journalism, CMCL, and telecommunications registration links.

It’s summer and fall 2016 registration time! Early Registration for summer runs from March 23-30 and for fall from April 4-29.

Here are a few things you will need to know:

Registration appointment dates and times
Summer and fall registration appointments are viewable via One.IU.edu. Type “Student Center” into the search box and click the app; check the Enrollment Dates box and click on the link. You may register any time on or after your appointment, but the closer you register to your appointment, the more likely you are to get into the courses you want and need. You may register from anywhere you can access the web.

Schedule of Classes
The summer and fall schedules are available online. You can access the Schedule via One.IU.edu: type “Student Center” into the search box and click the app. Under Academics, click “Search for Classes.” You can also search using iGPS. At One.IU.edu, type iGPS into the search box and click the app that says “Search Courses.” It can also be viewed on the Student Central on Union website. Click on “Student Records,” “Register for Classes,” “Manage Your Schedule,” “Schedule of Classes.” For step-by-step directions on how to register follow the same path, but click on “Register Using One.IU” instead of “Manage Your Schedule.” Please be aware that the schedules don’t tend to be completely accurate when they’re first posted so be sure to check them again just before you register.

Advising
You are not required to meet with a Media School adviser prior to registration, but we do recommend it – especially if you have any questions about what you should take. To set up an appointment to see Janis Bolling, Kate Goldstein, Lauren Kinzer, Jeanne Myers or Jay Showalter use the StarNet system: https://starnet.indiana.edu. Search for us by last name if you can’t find us in the drop down menu. Make sure you click “View Calendar” every time you switch to a different adviser’s name to ensure you’re looking at correct availability.

Plan ahead! Our schedules fill up fast at this time of year and we will have very limited walk-in time available. See StarNet for that information, too. Walk-ins are on a first to come, first to be served basis. Look for a sign-up sheet when you arrive at the office.

Media School Bulletin
The Media School bulletin is where you will find information on the school’s policies and degree requirements.
At the end of this e-mail I’ve listed the MSCH courses we’re offering this summer and fall that will fulfill the Making Media, Managing Media and Thinking Media requirements. As you make selections pay attention to which courses might be prerequisites for courses in whichever concentrations and specializations you may be planning to pursue. Look at upper level courses you will have to take or would like to take to find which of the Media Core classes serve as their prerequisites. Talk to an adviser with questions.

Declaring your Media School Degree:
If you are still in the system as a Media School Exploratory student and you are ready to officially declare your intended degree, concentration and specialization, please tell us your plans during your advising appointment. If you don’t know where you’re headed yet, that’s fine – and you may only know a portion of it. See the Media School website or bulletin (linked above) for all of your options.

Any questions, please get in touch!
